From the New York Mercury. Maytime Memories.

BY HENRY C. L. HASKELL. I know that the sky is blue and bright, That the air is fragrance-laden, And the whole earth seems, in the sun's warm

Like some poet's dream of Aiden, And I know that the breeze, on its whispering

With each sair spring flow'ret dallies; But I think of the light of another May, And I think of my darling Alice.

The sky was then of its fairest hue, And bright the Maytime hours; And the whispering breeze as lightly blew Asnow through the scentea flowers. And together we formed that soft spring day, Bright dream and airy palace-Oh, I moura for the light of that other May,

But all too soon those dreamings fled; Ere the summer-flowers had faded, We laid her down in her churchyard bed, -With weeping willows shaded. And vanished now as the sunset ray, Bright dream and air-built palace, And I mourn for the light of that other May,

And I mourn for my darling Alice.

And I mourn for my darling Alice. And yet I look through grief and care To the home of bass eternal, Where never sorrow and sadness are, And flowers are ever vernal. No more shall we journey o'er Life's dark way, Nor quaff from the bitter chalice; But there in a never-ending way, I shall meet my darling Alice.

Accepted the War for an Object. Mr. Lincoln, while in attendance at the Sanitary Fair at Philadelphia recently, made a short speech, in response to a toast. From it we extract the following:

"War at the best is horrible, and this of ours in its magnitude and duration is one of In addition to our stock of Heavy Groceries, we the most terrible that the world has ever known. It has deranged business totally in many places, and perhaps in all. It has destroyed prosperity, destroyed life and ruined nomes. It has produced a national debt and a degree of taxation unprecedented in the history of this country. It has caused mourning among us until the heavens may almost be said to be hung with black. And yet it continues."

"When is this war to end? I do not wish to name a day when it will end, lest the end should not come at the given time. We accepted this war, and did not begin it -[Deafening applause.] We accepted it for an object: and when that object is accomplished the war will end; and I hope to God it will never end until that object is accomplished .-- [Great applause.] We are going through with our task, so far as I am concerned, if it takes us three years longer."

What the object is to which LINCOLN alluded, is well known-The Abolition of slavery. He tells us for that object he acgepted the war, and hopes to God it will never end until that object is accomplished. One million of men and billions of the people's money have been sacrificed, according to the President's boast, to carry out the at all prices. plane of the Abolitionists; and to accomplish their "object" he expresses his willingness to prosecute the war for three years longer. He would lose nothing by it, and with our suffering, tax-ridden, bleeding people and prostrate country, he has little sympathy. But how will the people, upon whom the burders of the war fall so severely like the sacrifice that is demanded of them by these abolition partizans in support of their cherished "object."-Portsmouth Times.

Death of Bishop-General Polk. The Rt. Rev. Leonidas Polk, D. D., Bish.

op Louisiana is dead. His remains reached Atlanta, Ga., the 5th inst., and laid in state at St. Luke's Church. The Episcopal services were conducted by Rev. Dr. Quintard before a vast assemblage, and the remains were then escorted for transportation to Augusta. Bishop Polk was consecrated Dec. 9th, 1838. and he has been a Confederate General since the first of the rebellion.

An exchange compares the present ruling power at Washington to an Iceburg making its way down the ocean, destroying all that comes in its way!

LEISURE HOURS .- It was a beautiful ob-servation of the late William Hazlitt, that "there is room enough in human life to crowd almost every art and science in it, If we pass 'no day without a line'-visit no place without the company of a book-we may with ease fill libraries, or empty them of their contents. The more we do, the mote leisure we have."

The Mormone in Utah have resolved to cut a canal from the Provo river, commencing at the mouth of the carpon, about five miles above Provo City, by way of Pleasant Grove and American Fork Cities, Lehi. It will afford the first-named settlement water enough for the crops.

jame 19, 1862-1y DR. JOHN BULL'S COMPOUND CEDRON BITTERS!

The Latest and Most Important Discovery of the Nineteeath Century.

NO MAN'S NAME IS MORE INTIMATELY connected with the history of the Materia Medica of the United States, or more favorably known as a pioneer in medical discovery, than that of JOHN BULL, of Louisville, Ky. His inimitable preparation of Satsaparilla has long stood at the head of the various compounds of that valuable drug. His compound Pectoral of Wild Cherry has become a household word throughout the West and South; and his Worm Lozenges, in less than a year after their introduction, attained a reputation as widespread as the continent of North America. But the crowning glory of his life remains to be attained in his latest discovery, or rather combination, for he does not claim to have been the discoverer of CEDRON, which is the basis of the Bitters now offered to the public. That honor belongs to the native inhabitants of Central america, to whom its virtues have been known for more than two hundred years. Armed with it, the Indian bids desance to the most deadly malaria, and handle out fear the most venomous scrpents. belief with them that while there is breath left in the body the Cedron is potent to care, no mattet what the disease may be.

While Dr. Bull is not prepared to indorse this extravagant pretension, he is nevertheless satisfied from a thorough examination of the evidence relating to its virtues, that, as a remedy and preventive for all diseases arisin, from exposure either to changes of weather and climate or to the miasmatic influences, it stands without a rival, and justly deserves the reputation it has so long enjoyed in Central America and the West Indies. In and its attendant train of symptoms, it acts more like a charm than a medicine. There is nothing in the whole range of the Materia Medica that can for a moment bear a comparison with it in this disease.

A full account of this wonderful plant may be found in the eleventh edition of the U. S. Dispensatory, pages 1887 and 1883.

A series of experiments, in which Dr. Bull has been for years engaged, has just been brought to a successful termination, and he is now enabled to offer to the public a combination of Cedron with other improved tonics, the whole preserved in the best quality of copper-distilled Bourbon whisky, which he is confident has no equal in

He might furnish a volume of certificates, but the public have long since learned to estil ato

And in FEVER AND AGUE; It is destined to supersede all other remedies. It that only cures all these diseases but it prevents them.
